

Luke

- 1. Luke is called "the beloved physician" by Paul (Col. 4:14).
- He wrote Luke & Acts to a Greek believer named Theophilus (Lk. 1:1-4; Acts 1:1-3) to clarify the gospel & its impact in the world.
- Luke was not an eyewitness of the life of Christ but did "careful research" to write his account in an orderly fashion (1:1-4).
- 4. His literary style shows his education.
- While he is writing an "orderly account" Luke is very purposeful in writing to show the scope of Jesus' ministry as Messiah bringing salvation to all people.

The Gospel in Luke-Acts

In Luke the gospel message moves from Galilee to Jerusalem reaching all people vertically up & down the social scale.

In Acts the gospel message moves from Jerusalem to Rome reaching all people horizontally throughout the known world.

After careful investigation, Luke wrote to Theophilus—a Gentile believer—providing him with the facts of Jesus' life, ministry, teaching, death, and resurrection as predicted in the Old Testament in order to encourage him that his faith in Jesus was ordained by God through the Holy Spirit and was consistent with the universal offer of salvation to all people as presented by Christ and entrusted to His disciples who would carry the message to the world.
